

Evangelising...

*anyplace
anytime
anyone*

Life experience

In my late teens I went through a period of searching for a purpose in life. Then quite by accident I met a group of people who seemed to have peace and love just shining out of them. I had never met anyone like that before. They were enthusiastic about their faith and frequently told me about what God was doing in their lives. I soon realised that I wanted what they had. I started going to prayer meetings with them and eventually to mass. I found my purpose and over twenty years later I am still on the road I started on through a single chance meeting.

Reflection

If we live a spirit-filled life, God's love and joy will shine out of us for all the world to see. We can attract people to God by what we are, by what we say and by what we do. If we are prepared to speak about what gives our life meaning and purpose, God can use us to draw others to Godself.

Discussion Point

Are you determined to put God first in your life and live a spirit-filled existence? Is your life an example to all those you meet as you go about your everyday life? Do the people in your life and work know you are a committed Christian?

Evangelising...

*anyplace
anytime
anyone*

Life experience

In my late teens I went through a period of searching for a purpose in life. Then quite by accident I met a group of people who seemed to have peace and love just shining out of them. I had never met anyone like that before. They were enthusiastic about their faith and frequently told me about what God was doing in their lives. I soon realised that I wanted what they had. I started going to prayer meetings with them and eventually to mass. I found my purpose and over twenty years later I am still on the road I started on through a single chance meeting.

Reflection

If we live a spirit-filled life, God's love and joy will shine out of us for all the world to see. We can attract people to God by what we are, by what we say and by what we do. If we are prepared to speak about what gives our life meaning and purpose, God can use us to draw others to Godself.

Discussion Point

Are you determined to put God first in your life and live a spirit-filled existence? Is your life an example to all those you meet as you go about your everyday life? Do the people in your life and work know you are a committed Christian?

